Prioritising traceability

Some 10,000 high-quality Belgian pigs are slaughtered and processed in the slaughterhouse and cutting hall every week. This quality is guaranteed by our auto-control system and the approval by veterinarians commissioned by the federal Food Agency. We take our pigs from the farmers, process them in our cutting hall and deliver them to you. In addition to quality, we prioritise the traceability of our meat. From whole animals at the farmer to the cuts that leave our cutting hall, all our pigs are properly labelled, so that we can fully trace every piece of meat.
